Cristina,

I see it, but it's still not correct

2019 balance: 30 days

Taken: 26 days (if we add the 3 days from July 29)

Unused: 4 days (if we add July, 1 day)

She can respond however she likes

Perhaps she'll understand if you put it that way...

Regards

Marta

Hi Cris

Of course. Let me explain.

The 3 days in July still belong to 2018 vacation time, the rest were from 2019

But earlier in June I traveled for the first communion of my little niece and then I went to the Balearics for a few days with my mother. Marta Sanjurjo canceled that vacation week because Pablo was going to Chicago and she was being left alone in NY. That's why there are 7 vacation days I didn't take and that need to be deducted from that calculation.

Consequently, vacation days taken in 2019 = 12 + 14 days = 26 days – 7 days not taken due to canceled vacations = 19 days taken, 11 days not taken (not 13 as I told you; apologies but it says 13 in Successfactors)

Total 11 unused vacation days for 2019

Tell me if you need more information or anything
Thank you
Marta

Hello Cristina!

Happy Christmas! I hope you're resting and enjoying it!

Hey, I wanted to tell you that my Barcelona roommate is leaving the apartment on January 21. She bought an apartment a few months ago and has been remodeling it and they'll be moving her furniture in 3 weeks from now. Well, the thing is that I'm looking for a replacement and I hope to get everything arranged this coming week before leaving for New York.

But I need to return for a few days to ensure that the change to one or other tenant is done right and that I can hand the apartment over in good condition. I'm still awaiting the exact dates but it will be more or less at that time. Sara will be leaving on January 21 and I want the new tenant to move in no later than February 1.

I can confirm the exact details for you in a few days and what days I would need to come to Barcelona. I have some unused vacation time from 2019 that I could use for this if that's possible. I know this isn't best time but I need to get everything arranged.

I'm sorry for the hassle but wanted to let you know!

Regards
